There is evidence suggesting that the said mutation can increase viral rate of transmission, there is still no definitive evidence showing that carriers of the G614 variant are actually more transmissible than those with D614.

This likely translates to a higher level of infectivity.

However, PGC emphasized that although this information confirms the presence of G614 in the Philippines, all the samples tested were taken from Quezon City and may not represent the mutational landscape for the whole country.

PGC also highlighted that despite studies frequently observed mutations must be done in order to better understand the evolutionary trajectory of SARS-CoV-2 to inform containment, diagnostic, and therapeutic strategies.

While it is critical to mitigate transmission within the country to prevent further spread of the virus, there is also a need to strengthen surveillance and control measures at our country's ports of entry.

Previous epidemics and pandemics have shown that mutations in pathogen genomes may generate new viral variants that cause more severe disease or to spread more easily from person to person.

Nevertheless, continuous monitoring of said mutation and other

By limiting the introduction of new variants into the country, we may not only help reduce the spread of infections, but also prevent new potentially, more virulent and/or infectious variants from coming into the country.

The RITM, in collaboration with the University of Glasgow, is also currently conducting further research study of the SARS-CoV-2 viral genome sequencing. Genome sequencing can provide essential information for the development of diagnostic tests, therapeutics, and vaccines.

Although this is new information, the DOH emphasizes that regardless of what variant is causing community transmission, the preventive measures to protect the public against contracting COVID-19 are the same.

Nasa tinatayang 400 na Bacooreño ang sumailalim sa Expanded Targeted Mass Swab Testing kahapon sa San Nicolas 3. Kabilang sa mga nasama sa testing ay mga vendors ng Zapote Market, at mga suspect at probable persons mula sa Barangay San Nicolas3 at mga karatig na lugar.

Maayos at mabilis ang pagsasagawa ng swab testing at lahat ay sumunod sa mga health protocols. Ang nagpapakita ng mga sintomas ng Covid-19 sa mga sumailalim sa test ay agad pinapayuhan na mag-quarantine habang naghihintay pa ng resulta. Kung wala silang lugar upang mag-quarantine, agad silang dinadala sa mga isolation facilities dito sa lungsod. Inaasahan na mas marami pang Bacooreño ang sasailalim sa Expanded Targeted Mass Swab Testing sa mga darating na araw.

Para maibsan ang pagkabalisa, takot, at stress ng ilang Female Persons Deprived of Liberty, minabuti ng BJMP na magsagawa ng Mandala Stone Painting sa piitan. Ang Mandala Stone Painting ay isang paraan ng pagpipinta na meditative. Bukod sa nailalabas nito ang pagiging malikhain ng isang tao ay nakakapagmuni-muni pa at narerelax ang utak ng mga gumagawa nito. Sinasabing nakakatulong din ang Mandala Stone Painting para labanan ang depression.

Nagpapasalamat sa BJMP ang mga female PDL na nakaranas nitong art form na ito dahil kahit sa ganitong simpleng paraan ay nakaramdam sila ng ligaya sa kanilang puso.

DENR supports “Aling Tindera Program” a residual waste recovery program

It seeks to incentivize fishermen and their families to collect plastic waste around Manila Bay and sell them in exchange for cash at Aling Tindera collection points stationed in coastal areas.

Aling Tindera shops—“sari-sari” stores owned by women—are collecting the plastics before turning them into profit by selling them to sustainability-conscious companies through the PCEx. With the COVID-19 pandemic, Antiporda noted that majority of people run to the ever-dependable “sari-sari” stores to buy food and other essentials.

Antiporda said that people find consumer products sold in these stores “not only cheaper and affordable, but also designed to promote qualified “sari-sari” stores as waste-to-cash collection centers at the barangay level,” the regional director explained.

“Unfortunately, since these products come in small packages like sachet, more plastic trash are generated by the community which, if not properly disposed of, would find their way into our waterways,” he pointed out.

This, Antiporda said, is the reason why it is important for the public to religiously practice waste segregation at home and support solid waste management programs like Aling Tindera.

For her part, Medved-Po said the COVID-19 should not be used as an excuse to discontinue the efforts to restore Manila Bay to its former glory. “The conservation of Manila Bay should not come to a halt while we address the global pandemic,” Medved-Po stressed.

Caanan said that plastic waste, particularly the post-consumer plastic packaging, constitutes a big part of the growing volume of solid waste in the metropolis.
