Pres. Duterte's approval rating rises to 91%

The 91 percent approval rating of President Rodrigo Duterte in the latest Pulse Asia survey reflects the people's trust and confidence in his ability to chart the right course for the country as Filipinos come to terms with the COVID19 pandemic and we begin to reopen and recharge the Philippine economy.

Secretary Eduardo Año of the Department of the Interior and Local Government (DILG) said the record soar in the President's trust rating also showed that the public is more discerning and informed and can look beyond the fake news and disinformation from pundits and critics of the government who are always looking for every opportunity to discredit the government's efforts.

"It means that 9 out of 10 Filipinos appreciate the government COVID response which includes the dramatic increase in COVID testing capacity – the highest in South East Asia -- the mega quarantine facilities, the unprecedented Social Amelioration Program for 21 million households across the country, the decreasing trend in COVID cases in Metro Manila and other parts of the country, the huge recovery rate of patients, among many others," Año said who is also Vice Chair of the NTF COVID-19.

"No amount of black propaganda can erase the government response and mitigation programs that has flattened the curve and has reached practically every household in the country. The people felt and appreciate the over-all effort of government, particularly the successful repatriation of a record number of OFWs from foreign shores who were ably assisted by OWWA and DFA and the successful program for Locally Stranded Individuals through the Hatid Tulong

DOH looks to BHERTS to assist private sector employees

The Department of Health (DOH) reminded the private sector that they can seek assistance from the Local Government Units (LGU) in terms of aiding their COVID-19 positive employees to get medical attention and isolate them in quarantine facilities.

According to Health Secretary Francisco T. Duque III, if an employee tests positive for COVID-19 or is experiencing symptoms aligned with the novel sickness, the company may get help from the Barangay Health Emergency Response Teams (BHERTs).

Eric, and his workmates in construction acted right away to designate an area in the site where he can quarantine, as well as a make-shift bathroom which only he used to prevent further transmission. With proper physical distancing and observance of other minimum health standards, it was also his workmates who helped him get the food supplies and essentials he needed.

Amid the below-optimal condition of his isolation area, Eric said it was his strong will that enabled him to recover from COVID-19. Keeping communication lines open with his friends also helped him bear the 14-day isolation.

During the interview, Eric also had a message for the public. "Kung hindi naman po importante yung gagawin sa labas, manatili na lamang po sa bahay, yung tinatawag na stay at home," he stressed. "Pero kung hindi natin maiwasan at importante ang gagawin sa labas, kailangan po natin magsuot ng protective gear tulad ng face mask at face shield para maiwasan po nating mahawa" Today, Eric is back in Ilocos Sur where his family lives. As a standard proto-program," he said.

Pulse Asia's Ulat ng Bayan survey, released last Monday, was conducted from Sept. 14 to 20 using face-to-face interviews of 1,200 Filipino adults 18 years old and above showed Duterte's approval rating up by 8 percent from 87 percent in December last year. Disapproval of his work still at five percent while five percent of the respondents were undecided.

Año said the continued soar in the President's rating disproved claims that the pandemic was the litmus test of his administration's lack of leadership, planning, and coordination among his subordinates in the Cabinet in addressing the pandemic.

"On the contrary, it became the rallying point for people to take action and follow the government's health protocol to prevent the spread of the virus and enable government officials to roll up their sleeves and think of innovative ways to contain the pandemic through the National Action Plan against COVID-19," the secretary said.

"Now that the people have spoken, I call on the critics of the government to pull your punches and listen to the people," Año said.

"Your much-needed temporary silence and cooperation with government at least during the pandemic, will spell the difference in containing this problem. There will come a time when this pandemic please," he stressed. Source: DILG

Dispose medical wastes properly DENR reminds LGU

The Department of Environment and Natural Resources (DENR) has called on local government units (LGUs) anew to ramp up efforts in handling and disposal of medical waste to ensure health and environmental safety amid the coronavirus pandemic.

“We are again reminding LGUs of their duty to ensure compliance with Republic Act 9003 or the Ecological Solid Waste Management Act, which includes the safe and environmentally sound management of health care waste,” said DENR Undersecretary for Solid Waste Concerns Benny D. Antiporda.

He added: “LGUs must take medical waste management seriously during this time of pandemic. We can’t afford to be lax on this issue. We cannot sacrifice the lives of our people just because of our negligence.”

Antiporda issued the reminder following reports that medical waste, such as face masks and gloves, were dumped along the bicycle lane on EDSA near White Planes Avenue in Quezon City last Monday.

The DENR official also reminded hospitals and other health care facilities of their obligation to segregate their trash using color-coded bags, disinfect medical waste, and make sure proper transfer procedures are observed.

Discarded masks, gloves and other medical waste were found scattered along EDSA near White Plains Avenue and were collected by streetsweepers yesterday.

Miguel De Guzman

He warned that criminal charges and penalties await individuals and establishments that may be found violating RA 9003.

Under the law, LGUs are primarily responsible for the effective and efficient solid waste management, particularly garbage segregation and disposal.

Antiporda nevertheless urged the public to do their share in the management of medical waste, saying “proper disposal of this kind of waste should start from households to prevent further spread of coronavirus.”

The DENR official also reiterated his call for LGUs to provide personal protective equipment (PPEs) to garbage collectors to prevent them from coming into contact with waste items potentially contaminated with coronavirus.

He said LGUs are under obligation to protect waste collectors, who provide vital service to keep communities clean and healthy amid the COVID-19 pandemic.

“After the health workers, garbage collectors are the second most important human shield against coronavirus, that’s why it is important for us to make sure they are protected,” Antiporda said. Source: DENR
